ABOUT THE ADL

The Anti-Defamation League (ADL) was founded in 1913 “to stop the defamation of the Jewish people and to secure justice and fair treatment to all.” Now the nation’s premier civil rights and human relations agency fighting anti-Semitism and all forms of bigotry, ADL defends democratic ideals and protects civil rights for all. A leader in the development of materials, programs and services, ADL builds bridges of communication, understanding and respect among diverse groups, carrying out its mission through a network of 27 Regional Offices in the United States and abroad.

ABOUT ADL’S NO PLACE FOR HATE® INITIATIVE

ADL’s No Place for Hate initiative is a school climate improvement framework that provides PreK-12 schools with an organizing framework for combating bias, bullying and hatred, leading to long-term solutions for creating and maintaining a positive climate. No Place for Hate schools receive their designation by:

- Building inclusive and safe communities in which respect is the goal, and all students can thrive.
- Empowering students, faculty, administration and family members to take a stand against hate and bullying by incorporating new and existing programs under one powerful message.
- Sending a clear, unified message that all students have a place to belong.

The No Place for Hate registered trademark is the sole property of the Anti-Defamation League and at all times must be used only with the permission of ADL and in the manner consistent with the goals of this initiative. Please consult your local ADL before using the logo in your school’s program and materials.

Dear Friends,

Over the last year, ADL has seen an increase in calls from schools across the country reporting a rise in bias and bullying behavior in and out of the classroom. That is why it is more important than ever for schools to join the No Place for Hate® movement to “build the world we want to live in,”—a world that is made up of inclusive communities where respect is the norm.

In addition to updated No Place for Hate implementation and activity resources, you’ll find links to pre- and post-student climate survey templates as well as a piece that connects ADL’s anti-bias work to Social Emotional Learning (SEL), originally written by ADL’s Director of Curriculum for Education Week. You will also find a listing of ADL’s anti-bias and bullying prevention training for students, educators, administrators, and family members. We were thrilled to hear from one No Place for Hate school that hosted four ADL trainings for their entire school community last year that they saw a 10% increase in the number of students who reported stepping up to support a target of bullying.

Whether this is your first year or your eighteenth, your participation in No Place for Hate is an integral part of fulfilling ADL’s mission “…to secure justice and fair treatment for all.” Thank you for your commitment to joining the movement that has inspired over 2,000 schools nationwide to combat bias and increase appreciation for the richness that diversity brings. Together we can make the places in which we live and learn No Place for Hate.

No Place for Hate® Spotlight

Sue Scheppele, Wharton Dual Language Academy

For five years, the Wharton Dual Language Academy in the Houston Independent School District has committed to making their campus No Place for Hate®. Sue Scheppele, the school’s physical education teacher has overseen the implementation of the initiative. Here are some of her thoughts:

HOW HAS NO PLACE FOR HATE HAD AN IMPACT ON YOU AND/OR YOUR SCHOOL?

The biggest impact that No Place for Hate has had on our school is that it has created conversations. The activities we have participated in have opened the doors for our students and teachers to have genuine and heartfelt conversations about social issues that impact them. Our activities have created a culture of safety and acceptance where students can openly discuss sensitive issues without fear of ridicule or being ostracized.

WHAT DO YOU THINK THE BIGGEST CHALLENGE IS IN MAKING SCHOOLS NO PLACE FOR HATE AND HOW HAVE YOU OVERCOME THAT CHALLENGE?

The biggest challenge in making our school a No Place for Hate school has been getting past the notion that these are just “feel good” activities to complete. Being a No Place for Hate school means that the activities should be integrated into our daily curriculum, and not just three stand-alone projects. The way I have been able to start overcoming this challenge has been to provide a variety of lessons/activities to the teachers with the teaching standards highlighted. I have been able to connect activities to science, mathematics, reading and other core subjects that support learning in the classroom.

WHAT PIECE OF ADVICE WOULD YOU GIVE TO SOMEONE WHO IS CONSIDERING JOINING THE NO PLACE FOR HATE MOVEMENT?

My best piece of advice to anyone considering joining the No Place for Hate movement is to GO FOR IT! Create your program and run with it. Use your heart and your imagination and create a school where students learn to accept one another. Don’t get caught up in the “let’s be kind and say nice things to each other” activities. Use real-life events and issues that our students confront daily. Really examine the issues and allow your students to take ownership of the activities. Take on the tough issues that make people feel uncomfortable. Think outside of the box and talk to your students about what they want to do to make your school a No Place for Hate school. Bring No Place to Hate to life and keep the conversation going daily. You will be amazed at the depth of the relationships you build with your students through this work. Empower your students and give them a voice that embraces diversity and rejects hate every day.
5 Steps to Becoming No Place for Hate®

The following provides an overview of the steps to becoming a No Place for Hate school. As a participating school, please contact your local ADL No Place for Hate Coordinator for in-depth details and required forms.

1. CONTACT ADL.

If you are interested in participating in No Place for Hate in the Houston region, contact ADL at 713-627-3490 to learn how your school can integrate No Place for Hate into your existing efforts. ADL will work with your school to establish initial goals and a plan to achieve them through select school-wide projects.

2. FORM A NO PLACE FOR HATE COMMITTEE.

The No Place for Hate Committee, Club or Coalition can be a newly established group at your school, or can become part of an existing Student/Faculty organizing body. This group will lead your No Place for Hate efforts throughout the year to promote respect, understanding and inclusion for all. Unlike an extracurricular club, this group should be integrated into school-wide planning. Student leadership is a critical part of a successful No Place for Hate initiative, so be sure to reach out to a cross-section of students for ongoing participation and ideas. Other suggested members include: faculty and staff members, administrators, family members and community leaders.

3. SIGN THE “RESOLUTION OF RESPECT” OR “NO PLACE FOR HATE PROMISE.”

The “Resolution” and “Promise” are designed to encourage each member of your school community to do their part to make your school No Place for Hate. Organize an official presentation of the Resolution of Respect (for middle and high schools) or No Place for Hate Promise (for elementary schools) to introduce the initiative at your school. This can be done as part of a school-wide assembly or pep rally or through individual classroom projects. Display the “Resolution” or “Promise” prominently for all to see. Consider sending a copy home to parents and adult family members with an explanation of the initiative and encourage families to sign copies as well!
4 DURING THE SCHOOL YEAR, CHOOSE AND COMPLETE THREE OR MORE ACTIVITIES THAT RECOGNIZE DIFFERENCES AND PROMOTE RESPECT THROUGH ACTIVE LEARNING.

Projects should enhance students’ understanding of diversity, bias, social justice and inclusion while fostering harmony in your community. Projects should be introduced throughout the year to build momentum, be tailored to the specific needs of your school and have school-wide impact. ADL’s award-winning anti-bias and bullying prevention programs are recommended as ideal projects to support your school’s No Place for Hate goals. Choose from the projects listed in this guide or be creative and contact ADL to discuss designing your own projects consistent with the No Place for Hate theme.

Fill out the Project Activity information on the website www.adl.org/noplaceforhatehouston before the implementation of each project. ADL staff will review and get back to you promptly. When a project is complete, collect supplemental materials (press releases, articles, photos, videos, etc.). Fill out the Proposed Activity Results section on the website and send it along with the supplemental materials to ADL. Please see page 8 for No Place for Hate® Activity Guidelines.

5 CONGRATULATIONS! ONCE YOU HAVE COMPLETED ALL ACTIVITIES, YOUR SCHOOL CAN BE OFFICIALLY DESIGNATED A NO PLACE FOR HATE® SCHOOL FOR THE YEAR.*

Your school will be awarded a banner to commemorate this milestone. Banners should be displayed prominently in your school (e.g., main office, front entrance, etc.) to demonstrate your commitment to being No Place for Hate.

ALL PARTICIPATING NO PLACE FOR HATE SCHOOLS ARE EXPECTED TO:

- Address bigotry, bullying, hate crimes and civil rights violations, if and when they occur, and work with ADL and other qualified organizations, when appropriate, to promptly address these incidents.
- Keep ADL regularly apprised of the progress of the initiative in your school community so ADL can recognize your work on our social media channels throughout the year.

*Schools must reapply each year to continue to be designated a No Place for Hate school. ADL reserves the right to revoke No Place for Hate status from any school that does not adequately address issues of bias and bullying that may arise.

Activity Guidelines

HOW CAN WE BE SURE OUR PROJECT IS CONSIDERED A NO PLACE FOR HATE® ACTIVITY?

All qualifying activities must be consistent with the No Place for Hate mission by challenging bigotry, bias and bullying; exposing young people to diverse identity groups, backgrounds and points of view; promoting respect for individual and group differences and providing opportunities for community-building within the school. Ideally, each project will challenge all students to think critically, instill a sense of empathy and empower students to become allies for one another.

ADDITIONALLY, NO PLACE FOR HATE ACTIVITIES SHOULD:

- Involve students in the planning and implementation
- Involve all students in active learning
- Involve all students in discussion and/or debriefing of activities
- Address school-based issues
- Have a school-wide impact
- Take place throughout the school year, with the three or more activities spread out over time
- Focus on inclusivity and community

NO PLACE FOR HATE ACTIVITIES SHOULD NOT INCLUDE:

- Signing the Resolution of Respect, which does not count as an activity, as it is a separate step in earning your school’s No Place for Hate designation
- Activities done by only one classroom or small group unless that group then engages the rest of the student body in a way that follows the activity guidelines
- Activities that do not incorporate discussion with students
- Activities that do not require ACTION from the students (use only passive learning)
- Activities that all take place in one week
The Need for Discussion

The success of No Place for Hate relies on the assurance that all members of school communities have a central voice in creating a plan that will lead to lasting change. The foundation for creating that change is a strong coalition of school leaders—students, educators, and family members—who have a stake in the outcomes of that plan.

There is no more obvious stakeholder than a student. Too often, adults assume they know what is needed to support youth, but without engaging students in the process, change can be elusive. One way to maximize engagement is through dialogue. That is why it is essential for No Place for Hate Committees to create activities that amplify students’ voices and give them an opportunity to participate in active discussion.

HERE ARE A FEW GENERIC PROMPTS TO HELP START THE CONVERSATION DURING AN ACTIVITY:

- What is one word to describe how you feel?
- What is one thing you learned today that you didn’t know before?
- Do you think other students will take what they learned seriously? If not, why?
- What is one thing you will do differently based on what you learned today?
- How will what you learned affect how you treat others moving forward?

Facilitating a dialogue around topics of bias and bullying may seem daunting to some. Just remember, it’s okay if you don’t have all of the answers. All you need to do is provide a space where students feel their voices are respected and valued. Only then will real change begin to take shape.

For more ways to engage students, please visit www.adl.org/education-outreach.
Sample Activities

Here are a few sample project ideas categorized by theme and recommended grade levels. Please remember that your school is responsible for tailoring each activity to meet the No Place for Hate® Activity Guidelines found on page 8, making sure that students are able to participate in discussion and active learning around the chosen theme/topic.

IDENTITY & CULTURE

DOLLS ARE US
This lesson provides an opportunity for students to explore their own identity and the physical characteristics that make each person unique, learn about some of the new diverse representation of dolls, reflect on their own experiences with dolls and propose a new doll by making one and writing a persuasive letter to a toy company.

“I AM…”
Lead a discussion with students about what makes people different and what makes them the same. Talk about the importance of respecting people’s differences. Give the students a piece of paper and ask them to draw a picture of themselves showing the things that make them different (e.g., physical traits, talents, hobbies, etc.). All of the self-portraits can then be collected and put together to make one giant collage for the hall titled, “Diversity=Strength.”

“HUMANS OF …” INSTAGRAM CAMPAIGN
Inspired by the “Humans of New York” campaign, lead a discussion with students about different aspects of identity (e.g., race, religion, language, gender, etc.). Following this discussion, create a student-led team that will interview students about aspects of their identities and post one interview, with an accompanying picture, on your school’s Instagram account daily. Interviewers should encourage people to share an aspect of their identity that makes them unique, and include a variety of languages represented at your school where appropriate. Be sure to monitor the Instagram account to respond to any negative feedback.

GRADES 6-12

NO PLACE FOR HATE SCAVENGER HUNT
Lead a discussion with students about what makes people different and what makes them the same. As homework, ask students to write ten things that make them stand out from everyone else (e.g., large family, famous people they’ve met, interesting talents, etc.). Collect everyone’s list of personal qualities and create 5-10 different bingo boards that feature one characteristic in each square. Hand one bingo board to each student and explain that... they will have a certain number of minutes to go around the room and try to find out which unique quality belongs to which student. When they find a match, they should have that student initial that box. After the time is up, have everyone take a seat and see how well everyone did filling out their bingo board. A great follow up discussion could include things that surprised them and how this activity might change how they interact with others moving forward.

GRADES 6-12

EXAMINING BIAS

WHEN I GROW UP

Lead a discussion about stereotypes using ADL’s lesson, “Mo’Ne Davis and Gender Stereotypes” (link below). As an extension to the lesson, ask students to think about ways that stereotypes impact how people treat each other in their school. Are girls treated differently than boys? Are students treated differently because of their race or skin color? If so, why? Ask students to share a time that they were discouraged from doing something because of an aspect of their identity. Finish the activity by giving each student a piece of paper and asking them to draw a picture of what they would like to be when they grow up. Encourage them to think big, even if it’s something that society says they shouldn’t be. Collect the students’ drawings and post them in a prominent place in the school as a reminder to challenge stereotypes. Have a small group of older students read books in the Kindergarten and 1st grade classrooms that share the themes of what they learned and how important it is to let people be exactly who they are.

YOU ARE WELCOME HERE

Lead a discussion with all students about immigration and refugees using ADL’s curriculum unit, “Huddled Mass or Second Class: Challenging Anti-Immigrant Bias in the U.S.” (link below). As an extension to the lesson, ask students why it’s important to learn about the stories of immigrants and refugees in connection with making their school No Place for Hate. Do they see a connection to the experience of immigrants and refugees to the U.S. and new students in their school? What are the similarities? Brainstorm ways to make new students feel welcome and announce that the school will be starting a Welcoming Committee that will oversee this. Allow students to sign-up to be a part of the committee.

GRADES 2-5

LISTENING JOURNAL
Have students keep a listening journal for one week. As they listen to the people in their lives and messages in the media (including social media), they will record in their journal examples of prejudice and bias. Lead a discussion about their observations and the impact on their school culture. In response, have students create a Positive Message Board to share and display messages of inclusion and respect, counteracting messages of hate and bias that they witnessed.

GRADES 6-12
Supporting ADL Resource/Lesson Plan: https://www.adl.org/education/educator-resources/lesson-plans/slurs-offensive-jokes-and-how-to-respond

POETRY SLAM
Lead a discussion with all students around the topic of microaggressions using the lesson below. Based on that discussion, have every student create original poems and raps that challenge the microaggressions they may have heard in school or hanging out with friends. Each class can then pick their favorite poem/rap which will be featured at a school wide Poetry Slam. Invite participants to present their work at PTO/PTA meetings, school board meetings or other school community events.

GRADES 9-12

BULLYING AWARENESS & PREVENTION

ALLY PUZZLE
Lead a discussion in each class about what bullying is and explore what ally behavior looks, feels and sounds like. As a follow up to this conversation, have each student draw on a piece of paper one ally behavior they commit to moving forward. Have each student present their drawing to the rest of the class and add it to the other drawings with tape so students can see the importance of being interconnected with their peers. This puzzle should be displayed in a prominent place.

GRADES K-5
Supporting ADL Resource/Lesson Plan: www.adl.org/education/educator-resources/lesson-plans/identity-based-bullying

USING LITERATURE TO ADDRESS BULLYING
Use the curriculum unit below as a tool to engage all students in a conversation about bullying and how to be an ally through the use of literature. Each lesson has extension activities that can easily be turned into full school activities that address issues of bullying.

GRADES K-12
Supporting ADL Resource/Lesson Plan: https://www.adl.org/education/educator-resources/lesson-plans/words-that-heal-using-childrens-literature-to-address
FROM BYSTANDING TO SUPPORTING
This multi-day activity begins with a classroom discussion that defines what bullying is and what it isn’t (see definition on page 30). Move into a discussion about the behaviors that people exhibit in bullying incidents with a focus on “bystanding.” (see list of behaviors on page 30). Conclude this discussion by asking students and teachers to write on a blank notecard a time that they passively observed a bullying incident but didn’t support the target and why. Collect all of the notecards and display them in a prominent place in the school where everyone can see them. Complete this activity with a second classroom discussion about ways to support targets of bullying. Conclude this discussion by having students and teachers write on a blank notecard one way that they commit to supporting targets of bullying moving forward. Collect all of the notecards and display them over the notecards already displayed in the hallway.

GRADES 6-12

SCHOOL CLIMATE
TREE OF RESPECT
Lead a discussion about the topic of respect. What is it? Is it the same as kindness (the answer is no)? How are they different? Why should we be focusing on respect rather than only kindness? Once students have a clear sense of the importance of respect, brainstorm ways that people can show respect to one another. Give each student a piece of construction paper to trace their hand and cut out the hand outline. On the hand, have them write one thing they commit to doing to demonstrate respect for others in their school. Collect the “hands” and place them like leaves on a tree in a prominent location in the school as a reminder of everyone’s commitment to respect one another.

GRADES K-5

#THATSNOTFUNNY
Lead a discussion around the topic of joking using the ADL lesson below. Allow students an opportunity to explore the difference between teasing and offensive jokes/slurs and the impact of those slurs on school climate. As a follow up to the conversation, ask students to come up with a hashtag that they can use to challenge derogatory comments online and in person.

GRADES 6-12
Supporting ADL Resource/Lesson Plan: https://www.adl.org/education/educator-resources/lesson-plans/slurs-offensive-jokes-and-how-to-respond
INTENTIONAL ACTS OF RESPECT

Lead a discussion around the topic of respect. What is it? What does it look like? What does it feel like? Follow this discussion with an opportunity for students to rate how respectful their school is by standing on an imaginary continuum between the words “Disrespectful” and “Respectful.” Allow students along the continuum to share their experience and why they chose to stand where they are standing. Continue the conversation by asking students to brainstorm ways that people can show respect at their school. As a follow up, provide one card to each student and explain that for one week, they will have an opportunity to recognize one student or faculty member for committing an Intentional Act of Respect. Collect the cards in drop-boxes throughout the school, and post them on a featured wall for all to see and read during morning announcements.

GRADES 6-12

SOCIAL JUSTICE

THE NEXT KID PRESIDENT

Use the lesson below to lead a discussion with students about what it means to be an activist. Have students identify and explore famous and ordinary activists and conduct research on an activist of their choice, which will culminate in a written speech and video that is similar in style to Kid President’s video. Once the videos are complete, find a way to show them to the whole school as a consistent way to inspire students and remind them about the importance of being an activist.

GRADES 2-5
Supporting ADL Resource/Lesson Plan: https://www.adl.org/education/educator-resources/lesson-plans/we-can-all-be-kid-president

SOCIAL JUSTICE POETRY

Use the lesson below during National Poetry Month (April) or in an ELA class during a poetry unit to engage students in an exploration of poetry and songs that have been used throughout our nation’s history to express thoughts and feelings about injustice and to envision a world where freedom, fairness and justice are universal for all. Be sure to make a connection to how this exploration of poetry and music will have an impact on their ability to be social justice advocates.

MAKING THE INVISIBLE VISIBLE

Using the lesson below, lead a discussion about the ways in which LGBTQ people, events and issues have been made invisible in mainstream accounts of history. Explore the impact of invisibility on people and how different groups have been historically marginalized in society. Then, engage students in a discussion about people who may feel invisible in their school. Be sure to focus on general identity characteristics (e.g., sexual orientation, immigration status, etc.) rather than specific individuals. Based on this discussion, ask students to sign-up to be interviewed if they feel like an aspect of their identity deserves more visibility. Help students create interview questions. Decide how the interviews will be recorded (e.g., audio, video, etc.) and compile the completed interviews into your school’s own StoryCorps library.

GRADES 9-12
Supporting ADL Resource/Lesson Plan:

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. AND BEYOND

Begin by leading a discussion in all Social Studies classes about the accomplishments of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Examine the challenges he faced by standing up to racial injustice and how he overcame those challenges. As a follow-up, ask students to research someone from history that isn’t as well known but whose actions had a positive impact on racial justice (e.g., Bayard Rustin, Dorothy Height, Anne McCarty Braden, etc.). Based on this research, create a hallway display that uses famous quotes, pictures, bios, a timeline of accomplishments and possibly video clips of speeches to highlight the work of MLK and the newly researched social justice leaders. The goal of this activity is to inspire students to be leaders in their school and allies to targets of bias, bullying, and injustice even when it’s not easy.

The Pyramid of Hate Activity

The Pyramid of Hate is a useful tool to help understand how words, jokes and stereotypes can escalate to hate and how bias and hate can escalate when no one speaks up or takes a stand against them. This activity provides an opportunity for students to reflect on personal biases and how they can interrupt the escalation of bias and hate in their school and community.

REQUIREMENTS

MATERIALS: Pyramid of Hate Handout and Pyramid of Alliance Template (found on pages 18 and 19 respectively), one for each per person; chart paper and markers; masking tape; scissors; glue sticks

TIME: 45 minutes

SPACE: open area with room to move into small groups

PARTICIPANTS: middle school to high school students

DIRECTIONS: PART I

1. Distribute a copy of the Pyramid of Hate handout to each person. Briefly review the different levels of bias in this diagram and share the following information with participants:

   The Pyramid shows biased behaviors, growing in complexity from the bottom to the top. Although the behaviors at each level negatively impact individuals and groups, as one moves up the Pyramid, the behaviors have more life-threatening consequences. Like a pyramid, the upper levels are supported by the lower levels. If people treat behaviors on the lower levels as being acceptable or “normal,” it results in the behaviors at the next level becoming more accepted.

2. Divide the students into five small groups and assign each group one level of the pyramid. Ask groups to discuss some of their experiences with prejudice at the level they are assigned, whether witnessed, directly involved, heard about or read about. Ask them to consider experiences specific to their school when appropriate and let them know that they will be reporting out to the rest of the groups. Allow 5–10 minutes for this discussion.
3. Reconvene the whole group and have each small group share one or two of the examples they discussed in their group, starting with the bottom of the pyramid. Because of the emotional impact of the level 5: Genocide, end this portion of the activity by reading the following quote:

“I am only one, but I am one. I cannot do everything, but I can do something. And I will not let what I cannot do interfere with what I can do.” - Edward Everett Hale

4. Lead a brief discussion, using some or all of the following discussion questions.

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

a. What is the value of the Pyramid of Hate when learning about bias and prejudice?

b. When behaviors on the bottom levels of the Pyramid are not challenged, what are the possible consequences to the overall climate of the school?

c. In reflecting on the escalation of hate when it is unchecked, what would you recommend as the best time to challenge biased attitudes and behaviors?

d. What are some actions you could take every day to interrupt the escalation of hate outlined in the Pyramid of Hate?

e. What, if any, are the challenges of being an ally?

f. In what ways might you behave differently after going through this activity?

NOTE TO TEACHER: The Pyramid of Hate is not designed to suggest a ranking in terms of how serious each level of thinking and/or behavior is. Rather, it demonstrates that when people accept one level of behavior, it becomes easier to accept behaviors on the level above as being “normal.” This normalization process has the potential to continue up the pyramid, and in fact, the most violent and horrific manifestations of prejudice at the top of the pyramid had their beginnings in the thinking described at the lower levels. A primary function of the Pyramid of Hate is to provide impetus for challenging all manifestations of prejudice and discrimination by motivating action in response to behaviors many see as subtle or insignificant.
The Pyramid of Hate

STOP IT WHERE IT STARTS

The Pyramid of Hate demonstrates the way that hateful attitudes and behaviors can escalate if they are unchecked. Many people describe the behaviors at the bottom level of the pyramid as “no big deal.” Like a pyramid, however, the top levels build on the levels below. If people or institutions treat behaviors on the lower level as acceptable or “normal,” it may not be long before the behaviors at the next level are more accepted. The Pyramid of Hate is a useful tool to help understand how words, jokes and stereotypes can escalate to hate.

PART II: THE PYRAMID OF ALLIANCE*

Following the completion of Part I of the activity, reconvene the students to discuss ways they can intervene at the different levels of the pyramid. Chart their responses. Once the brainstorm is complete, distribute the following template to each student and ask them to fill in the four sides with words or images that describe the following (one for each side):

1. Actions they can take at school
2. Actions they can take with friends
3. Actions they can take in the community
4. Actions they can take nationally or internationally

After the template is filled out, have students cut out and assemble the pyramid of alliance using scissors and glue. Collect the completed pyramids and display them in prominent locations throughout the school, such as art display cases or library shelves.

School Climate Improvement

No Place for Hate® is a school climate improvement framework designed to provide schools with the tools to implement sustainable, positive school climate change. Sustained positive school climate is associated with positive child and youth development, effective risk prevention and health promotion efforts, student learning and academic achievement, increased student graduation rates, and teacher retention.1

Addressing school climate is an ongoing process. To support that process, No Place for Hate follows the following strategies for school climate improvement efforts recommended by the National School Climate Center’s (NSCC) School Climate Practice Briefs:

1. ENGAGE ALL STAKEHOLDERS AS ACTIVE PARTICIPANTS AND AGENTS OF CHANGE.

The creation of the No Place for Hate Committee is the foundation to actively engaging all stakeholders in creating a positive school climate. Students, educators, administrators and family members all play a specific role in making sure issues of bias, bullying and discrimination are addressed effectively to create an inclusive school environment.

2. FOCUS ON LONG-TERM PROGRAMMING, IMPACTS, INFRASTRUCTURE, AND SUPPORT.

No Place for Hate has the greatest impact when schools make a multi-year commitment, allowing for the scaffolding of lessons and activities that build on each other and get the school community on board to creating a safe and welcoming school environment.

3. CREATE SCHOOL NETWORKS TO SHARE BEST PRACTICES AND DISCUSS CHALLENGES.
   ADL provides a webinar series that allows participating No Place for Hate coordinators to come together to share best practices and ask questions with other educators across the country. These webinars also provide practical tools and activity suggestions for those that are looking to enhance their No Place for Hate efforts.

4. ENGAGE STUDENTS AT ALL STAGES OF THE PROCESS TO BUILD CAPACITY AND SUSTAIN REFORM EFFORTS.
   Because students share a common language, experiences, interests and perspectives, they have the potential to positively influence one another’s behavior, both in school and beyond the school walls to home and community environments. Effectively engaging students in the implementation of No Place for Hate is crucial to the overall success of the program.

5. CREATE AND SHARE TOOLS AND INFORMATION WITH TEACHERS, ADMINISTRATORS, STAFF, AND PARENTS.
   In addition to this Resource Guide, ADL has a library of online resources and activities (https://www.adl.org/education-and-resources) designed to support the anti-bias and bullying prevention efforts of teachers, administrators, staff and family members. It is also important that there is a mechanism in place that allows for the sharing of these resources with the larger school community.

6. ESTABLISH A SCHOOL CLIMATE POLICY AGENDA TO SUPPORT QUALITY PRACTICES BUILT ON RESEARCH.
   Having a school climate policy that is clear and specific is a crucial step to getting everyone on the same page regarding the agenda to create a positive school climate. You can find a sample school climate policy on page 22 of this guide.
Creating a Positive School Climate Policy

Although the No Place for Hate Resolution of Respect and Promise serve as a declaration of individual school members’ commitment to creating a positive school climate, it is important that the school have a clear policy that defines what school climate is and what the expectations are to help reach that goal.

Below is a sample policy that will guide you in developing a policy that is specific to the needs of your school community. Feel free to modify any part of this sample.

Sample Positive School Climate Policy

Research indicates that positive school climate translates into safer, more engaging and supportive school communities. How students and staff feel about a school’s culture impacts other key indicators of success including academic achievement and teacher retention.

School climate refers to how students and staff feel about the social and environmental factors that make up their school culture (e.g., rules, policies, teaching pedagogy, etc.). (Name of School) is committed to developing and maintaining a respectful, inclusive and equitable school climate, which is reflected through classrooms and common areas free from bias and bullying behavior; clearly stated expectations about each individual’s responsibility in challenging that behavior; and curriculum that reflects the diversity of the student population and society in which we live. Without this, students will not feel welcomed, challenged and supported.

All members of the school community, including students, staff, administrators and family members are expected to serve as role models by demonstrating ally behavior, culturally responsive pedagogy and respect of other students and staff.

(Name of School) will not tolerate any form of harassment, discrimination, bullying, or intimidation that would interfere with a respectful, inclusive and equitable school climate. Any member of the school community that engages in this kind of behavior will be subject to appropriate disciplinary procedures.
Measuring School Climate

FINDING THE RIGHT SURVEY FOR YOU

Measuring school climate is a key step to effectively creating No Place for Hate® activities that will have a lasting impact on the school culture so all students feel welcome and supported. If your state doesn’t already require and provide a measurement tool, it may be overwhelming trying to decide which survey tool to use.

1. The tool should have a strong research base.
2. It should have been vigorously field tested.
3. It should includes measures for all core stakeholders (e.g., students, staff and family members).
4. It should be easy to administer (e.g., paper or online).
5. It should have the ability to add additional features to measure areas specific to your school.
6. It should provide follow-up support for school leaders/principals.

ADL recommends the following two survey tools that meet the recommended criteria above:

- U.S. Department of Education School Climate Survey
  \url{https://safesupportivelearning.ed.gov/edscls/administration}
- National School Climate Center’s Comprehensive School Climate Inventory
  \url{http://www.schoolclimate.org/programs/csci.php}

To learn more about effective school climate measurement and analysis strategies, go to \url{https://www.schoolclimate.org/publications/documents/sc-brief-measurement.pdf}

If you are overwhelmed with the idea of implementing a full scale climate survey, ADL has developed the assessment on the following pages as a starting point to a more thorough analysis of school climate in the future.

PART I. GENERAL TERMS

ANTI-BIAS
An active commitment to challenging prejudice, stereotyping and all forms of discrimination.

BIAS
An inclination or preference either for or against an individual or group that interferes with impartial judgment.

BIGOTRY
An unreasonable or irrational attachment to negative stereotypes and prejudices.

CULTURE
The patterns of daily life learned consciously and unconsciously by a group of people. These patterns can be seen in language, governing practices, arts, customs, holiday celebrations, food, religion, dating rituals and clothing, to name a few.

DISCRIMINATION
The denial of justice and fair treatment by both individuals and institutions in many arenas, including employment, education, housing, banking and political rights. Discrimination is an action that can follow prejudicial thinking.

DIVERSITY
Means different or varied. The population of the United States is made up of people from diverse racial and cultural groups.

MULTICULTURAL
Means many or multiple cultures. The United States is multicultural because its population consists of people from many different cultures.

PREJUDICE
Prejudging or making a decision about a person or group of people without sufficient knowledge. Prejudicial thinking is frequently based on stereotypes.

SCAPEGOATING
Blaming an individual or group for something based on that person’s or group’s identity when, in reality, the person or group is not responsible. Prejudicial thinking and discriminatory acts can lead to scapegoating.

STEREOTYPE
An oversimplified generalization about a person or group of people without regard for individual differences. Even seemingly positive stereotypes that link a person or group to a specific positive trait can have negative consequences.
PART II. MANIFESTATIONS OF PREJUDICE AND DISCRIMINATION

The following are specific manifestations of prejudice and discrimination, all of which are based on stereotypes and/or negative attitudes toward members of a particular group.

ABLEISM
Prejudice and/or discrimination against people with mental and/or physical disabilities.

AGEISM
Prejudice and/or discrimination against people because of their real or perceived age.

ANTI-SEMITISM
Prejudice and/or discrimination that is directed towards Jews.

CLASSISM
Prejudice and/or discrimination against people because of their real or perceived economic status.

HETEROSEXISM/HOMOPHOBIA
Prejudice and/or discrimination against people who are or who are perceived to be lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender or queer (LGBTQ). While homophobia is usually used to describe a blatant fear or hatred of LGBT people, heterosexism is a broader term used to describe attitudes and behaviors based on the belief that heterosexuality is the norm. Other related, specific, terms are transphobia and biphobia.

ISLAMOPHOBIA
Prejudice and/or discrimination against people who are or who are perceived to be Muslim or of Arab descent, and a fear or dislike of Islamic culture.

RACISM
Prejudice and/or discrimination against people based on the social construction of “race.” Differences in physical characteristics (e.g. skin color, hair texture, eye shape) are used to support a system of inequities.

RELIGIOUS BIGOTRY
Prejudice and/or discrimination against people based on their religious beliefs and/or practices.

SEXISM
Prejudice and/or discrimination against people based on their real or perceived sex. Sexism is based on the belief (conscious or unconscious) that there is a natural order based on sex.

TRANSPHOBIA
Fear or hatred of transgender people; transphobia is manifested in a number of ways, including violence, harassment and discrimination.

WEIGHTISM
Prejudice and/or discrimination against overweight and obese people.

XENOPHOBIA
Prejudice and/or discrimination against anyone or anything that is perceived to be foreign or outside one’s own group, nation or culture.
PART III: TERMS SPECIFIC TO NAME-CALLING AND BULLYING

BULLYING
Intentional repeated actions or threats of action directed toward a person by one or more people who have (or are perceived to have) more power or status than their target in order to cause fear, distress or harm.

Behavior is not considered bullying if it occurs once with no intention of gaining power (e.g., bumping into someone, telling a joke once, not playing with someone, etc.)

With that said, it is important that all mean behavior is addressed in a timely and appropriate way.

CYBERBULLYING
The intentional and repeated mistreatment of others through the use of technology, such as computers, cell phones and other electronic devices.

NAME-CALLING
The use of language to defame, demean, or degrade individuals or groups.

PART IV: FOCUSING ON BEHAVIOR

Bullying is a behavior. Because of this, ADL encourages educators to use language that describes students' behavior rather than the student themselves (e.g. “the student who bullied,” rather than “the bully,” or “the student who was bullied” rather than “the victim”). By focusing on behavior, we avoid sending the message that a student's behavior cannot change, and we acknowledge that one person can exhibit multiple behaviors in different bullying situations.

Below are the behaviors individuals may exhibit in incidents of bullying.

BULLYING
Bullying can be verbal, physical or social and can be done in person or online.

INSTIGATING
Instigating is the act of creating drama or chaos in hopes that others will engage in mean and abusive behavior.

COLLABORATING
Collaborating gives the person who is bullying an audience, often through laughter and other forms of support. This collaboration reinforces the bullying behavior.

BystANDING
Many students observe bullying behavior without supporting or confronting out of fear of being bullied themselves or not knowing how to support the one who is being bullied.

CONFRONTING
People who confront speak out when an incident of bias or bullying takes place. The person who is being bullied or someone outside of the incident can confront.

SUPPORTING
To support someone who is bullied, a student can choose not to participate in the behavior; they can tell the one who is bullying to stop; they can tell a trusted adult; or they can ask the one who was bullied if they are okay.

The false idea that all members of a group are the same and think and behave in the same way.

SUPPORTING
When a person helps someone who is bullied. There are many ways to support, including not participating in the behavior; telling the one who is bullying to stop; telling a trusted adult; or asking the one who was bullied if they are okay.

TEASING
Laughing at and putting someone down in a way that is either friendly and playful or mean and unkind.
Creating a Bias Free Learning Environment

TALKING WITH STUDENTS ABOUT DIVERSITY AND BIAS

It is important for teachers to think about how they can most effectively raise the complex issues of hate, bias, scapegoating, and exclusion with their students. To prepare for successfully raising issues of diversity and bias in the classroom, teachers should attempt to integrate the following practices into their classroom curricula.

SELF-EXPLORATION: Provide students with opportunities for the examination of personal cultural biases and assumptions.

COMPREHENSIVE INTEGRATION: Integrate culturally diverse information/perspectives into all aspects of teaching.

TIME AND MATURATION: Allow time for a process to develop. Introduce less complex topics at first, and create time to establish trust.

ACCEPTING ENVIRONMENT: Establish an environment that allows for mistakes. Assume good will and make that assumption a common practice in the classroom.

INTERVENTION: Be prepared to respond to intentional acts of bias. Silence in the face of injustice conveys the impression that prejudicial behavior is condoned or not worthy of attention.

LIFE-LONG LEARNING: Keep abreast of current anti-bias education issues and discuss them with students.

DISCOVERY LEARNING: Avoid “preaching” to students about how they should behave. Provide opportunities for students to resolve conflicts, solve problems, work in diverse teams and think critically about information.

LIFE EXPERIENCES: Provide opportunities for students to share life experiences; choose literature that will help students develop empathy.

RESOURCES REVIEW: Review materials so that classroom displays and bulletin boards are inclusive of all people.

HOME-SCHOOL-COMMUNITY CONNECTION: Involve parents, other family members and other community members in the learning process.

EXAMINE THE CLASSROOM ENVIRONMENT: What is present and absent in the school classroom provides children with important information about who and what is important.
Anti-Bias Education: The Power of Social-Emotional Learning*

*THIS BLOG WAS ORIGINALLY WRITTEN BY ADL’S DIRECTOR OF CURRICULUM, JINNIE SPIEGLER, AND PUBLISHED BY EDUCATION WEEK ON MAY 13, 2017.

How is social and emotional learning (SEL)—which is now an established and critical part of the school experience—connected with anti-bias education? If we want to help young people understand bias and work on social justice, what does SEL bring to the table?

According to Collaborative for Academic, Social and Emotional Learning (CASEL), social and emotional learning is "the process through which children and adults acquire and effectively apply the knowledge, attitudes, and skills necessary to understand and manage emotions, set and achieve positive goals, feel and show empathy for others, establish and maintain positive relationships and make responsible decisions."

CASEL outlines these core SEL competencies:

- Self-awareness: The ability to recognize one's emotions and thoughts and reflect on their influence on behavior, including the ability to assess strengths and limitations and possess a well-grounded sense of confidence and optimism.

- Self-management: The ability to regulate one's emotions, thoughts and behaviors effectively in different situations, including managing stress and impulses and motivating oneself to work towards and achieve goals.

- Social awareness: The ability to take the perspective of and empathize with others from diverse backgrounds and cultures and understand social and ethical norms for behavior.

- Relationship skills: The ability to establish and maintain healthy and rewarding relationships with diverse individuals and groups, which includes skills in communication, listening, cooperation, negotiating conflict constructively, resisting inappropriate social pressure and seeking and offering help when needed.

- Responsible decision making: The ability to make constructive and respectful choices about personal behavior and social interactions based on consideration of ethical standards, safety concerns, social norms, consequences and the well-being of self and others.

(continues)
The term "social and emotional learning" was popularized in 1995 with the publication of Daniel Coleman's book Emotional Intelligence, though the term was actually coined several years before by Peter Salovey and John D. Mayer. SEL gained prominence after the 1997 publication of Promoting Social and Emotional Learning: Guidelines for Educators.

Several hundred experimental, control-group studies have documented the positive effects of SEL programming on children of diverse backgrounds from preschool through high school. Such programs have been shown to improve students' social skills, reduce aggression and behavior problems, improve attendance and academic performance and reduce depression. They have also been shown to improve the classroom climate for learning. CASEL has compiled descriptions of SEL programs that have proven to be most effective.

Over the past twenty years, educators have developed a wide variety of approaches and programs that come under the umbrella of SEL including: character education, conflict resolution and peer mediation, restorative justice and other alternatives to punitive discipline/suspension, bullying prevention, school climate work and more. Some of these do include explicit instruction on bias and social justice.

Anti-bias education is a distinct field. It is a comprehensive approach to help young people learn to actively challenge stereotyping, bias and all forms of discrimination. Anti-bias mastery skills include: understanding the various dimensions of identity; learning and applying basic terms relating to bias and discrimination; increasing understanding of the impact of culture and differences on communication; and recognizing, acknowledging and confronting bullying, bias and discrimination in themselves, others and within institutions.

Given the public conversation about bias and injustice—especially recently—several prominent national education organizations including the NEA, AERA, NCTE and AFT have called for addressing equity in schools and society, specifically recommending that educators and school leaders "receive the tools, training, and support they need to build curricula with substantive exploration of prejudice, stereotyping, and discrimination."
Anti-bias education and social and emotional learning intersect in a variety of ways.

INTRA- AND INTERPERSONAL RELATIONSHIP SKILLS
As we introduce young people to sometimes delicate concepts like identity, diversity, stereotyping and bias, they will need SEL skills as the foundation for having those conversations in a productive way. In order to open up and discuss difficult topics, children need to feel safe and respected in their classrooms. They need to be able to communicate effectively to convey their point of view and understand what others are saying in words and body language. They need an expanded feelings vocabulary for the different emotions that may emerge when they interact with anti-bias material in the classroom, and it will be useful to have productive ways to deal with those feelings. Finally, they need to learn how to work, learn and play collaboratively in small and large groups and among differences.

SOCIAL AWARENESS AND EMPATHY
Empathy and perspective taking are key components of social and emotional learning. Being able to understand the perspective of different people and empathizing with their life’s situations and struggles helps students accept differences and gain insight into how bias and discrimination impact different people. Empathy and perspective taking motivate students to take the next step and do something about the injustice they see in their world. We know that giving students skills and knowledge in bias and bullying are not enough—empathy and understanding are critical to get young people to want to make change, help other people or inspire them to be an ally.

IDENTITY-BASED TEASING, NAME-CALLING AND BULLYING
There are many SEL programs that focus on social relationships between young people, which explore friendship, cliques, name-calling and bullying. Biased or identity-based bullying, when a person gets bullied because of bias based on an aspect of their identity (i.e., race, religion, sexual orientation, physical appearance, gender identity/expression, etc.), is all too common in school and especially in the teenage years. Therefore, helping students explore identity and bias are very important components of being able to confront identity-based bullying.

RESPONSIBLE DECISION MAKING
SEL aims to help young people understand that we all need to take responsibility for ourselves and others - including our school, community, country and world. When we see an injustice, it is especially important that we take action as global citizens. This reinforces the goal of anti-bias education: to teach young people that despite the injustice in the world, we can all make a difference and that throughout history, people working together have created change through activism and legislation and by changing people’s hearts and minds.
Holiday Activity Guidelines

Every December, and throughout the year, public school students, families, teachers and administrators face the difficult task of acknowledging the various religious and secular holiday traditions celebrated at various times of the year. These guidelines are designed to inform members of the public school community about the current state of the law regarding constitutionally permissible religious holiday observance in the public schools.

While there are appropriate educational benefits to teaching about the diverse religious traditions and cultures of our country, school officials must be sure they do not give students the impression that one set of holidays or beliefs is more important or more acceptable than others.

BE ACCURATE AND SENSITIVE

Religious holidays offer excellent opportunities throughout the year for teaching about religion and its historical importance. However, in order to avoid student embarrassment, don’t ask children to explain their own religious practices or observances or to bring religious objects to class as a basis of discussion. Be aware that some religions teach that celebrating holidays—or birthdays—is wrong. Children should always be permitted not to participate and should have the opportunity to engage in optional, enjoyable activities. Remember that writing a letter to Santa may be uncomfortable for children whose families do not recognize or observe the Christmas holiday. An option that is true to the spirit of the winter holidays might be encouraging children to write to merchants, or other children, seeking donations for children who lack any toys.

PLAN AHEAD: BE INCLUSIVE

ADL offers an online Calendar & Glossary of Observances at www.adl.org/calendar-of-observances. As you are planning your school calendar and No Place for Hate® activities for the year, consult this calendar in order to be as sensitive as possible to students’ observances. This tool is also useful for learning about various practices and holidays.

AVOID STEREOTYPING

Not all members of the same religious group observe a holiday in the same way. Make sure that you do not treat some holidays as regular and others as “exotic,” or that you introduce an ethnic group only in terms of its holiday observances. Multicultural activities that focus only on foods and holidays have been justifiably labeled the “tourist approach.” Better to share the holiday’s name, when it occurs, who participates and how this holiday reveals the historical experiences and culture of its followers. Because some holiday customs incorporate stereotypes, help children, for example, to identify stereotypes of Native Americans on Thanksgiving cards and decorations, and to understand why Thanksgiving can be a reminder of promises broken and dispossession for some, while it represents togetherness and thanks for others. Spend time creating new cards and decorations that celebrate the holiday with respect for all.

BE CONSTITUTIONALLY APPROPRIATE

Religious holiday observances, if held under public school auspices, violate the First Amendment’s separation-of-church-and-state mandate. Joint celebrations (Christmas-Chanukah, for example) do not solve the problem, as they only serve to introduce religious observances into the schools. They also tend to pit holidays in competition with each other and distort the significance of each. While recognizing a diverse group of holidays validates children and their families, bringing religious leaders into a public setting is not appropriate. The use of religious symbols such as a cross, menorah, crescent, Star of David, crèche, symbols of Native American religions, the Buddha, among others, that are part of a religious tradition is permitted as a teaching aid, provided such symbols are displayed only as an educational example of the culture and religious heritage of the holiday and are temporary in nature. They may not be used as decorations.

Use holiday activities as a way of enhancing respect for religions and traditions different from one’s own, but stress common themes, as well. Many religions focus on festivals of light, including Christmas, Chanukah, Kwanzaa, Santa Lucia Day and Diwali. Liberation is the theme of such holidays as the Fourth of July, Passover, Cinco de Mayo, Juneteenth and Martin Luther King, Jr.’s Birthday. By connecting holiday themes, you communicate that holidays are a valid expression of cultural and religious pride. You also convey that it’s okay to be different.
